KRUISIN' WITH THE KIDD

A Brief History of Burgers

The origin of the hamburger is more mystery than history. One version claims that hamburger, or "Filet de boeuf de Hambourgeoise," found its way from Europe to Boston where it first appeared on restaurant menus in 1874. Another source claims that the modern hamburger was invented in the 1880's by Fletcher Davis at his café in Athens, Texas. Yet another story claims that the first hamburgers were served at Louis Lassen's New Haven sandwich shop in 1895. And some food scholars claim that the first hamburger patty on a bun was served at Drexel's Pure Food Restaurant in Chicago in 1917.

Our Burgers Wait for No One

One of the many reasons that our burgers taste so great is because they don't spend time hanging around under a heat lamp until you show up to order one. Each one is made to order, when you order.

Which means they're not just a lot fresher and more delicious, they're also exactly what you're looking for. We'll take off that ingredient your mother made you eat when you were a kid and add a double shot of the toppings you really crave. Just let us know what you want when you order and we'll make it the way you like it. Every Kidd Valley burger is made with 100 % fresh ground beef from a local company that's been in Seattle since 1933. There are no secret ingredients and no sinister fillers, just pure ground beef. They're all served on a freshly toasted bun, topped with the freshest produce and slices of real cheese. That is, if you like cheese. We've even got whole-wheat buns if that's how you roll.

And if you're looking for a little more variety, we've got plenty of that:

You'll Get a Kick out of Our Chicken

Just because we make the best burgers in town doesn't mean that we don't also know how to cook the perfect chicken sandwich.

We start with a real butterflied chicken breast, not some sad patty that's been ground or pounded into a tough hockey puck. Then we quickly charbroil it under a hot flame, leaving plenty of juicy flavor inside.

Our Chicken Club is chock full of bacon, lettuce, Swiss cheese, tomato slices and dill pickle tucked inside a toasted sesame bun. And if you want to take a little walk on the wild side, try the Firehouse Club with three slices of jalapeño bacon.

The Random Riddle

How do you keep someone from stealing your Kidd Valley hamburger?

Everything Tastes Better with Bacon

One of the first things we do when we arrive here every morning is start frying plenty of fragrant, flavorful bacon so we'll have enough to meet the demand. Our regular customers love our array of specialty burgers and sandwiches that are spiked with the smoky snap of perfectly crisped bacon. If you'd like to find out why, just ask for the Blazing Bacon Burger, take a bite and savor that crunchy ecstasy.

What's A Fish Sandwich Doing In A Burger Joint?

Tasting fabulous, that's what. And you won't find any "sticks" in our fish sandwich because we start with an actual filet of hand-cut True Cod. Then we dip it in batter and our own tasty breading before popping it into the deep fryer and onto a freshly toasted bun that's dressed up with our homemade tartar, freshly sliced tomatoes, dill pickles, shredded lettuce you're choice of cheese. It's bliss between two pieces of bread.

Straight from the Garden of Eatin'

Just because you don't eat meat, chicken or fish doesn't mean you can't enjoy a Kidd Valley burger. In fact, our vegetable-and-grain garden patty is so delicious that many of our meat-eaters like to order it for a change. We cook it to order on the grill and it's available with your choice of our regular choice fixings plus slice of your favorite cheese, all on a freshly toasted bun.

We Know How to Shake That Thing

Let's face it: a burger is just not a burger unless there's a shake to go with it. Plenty of other burger joints serve fake shakes that come out of a machine, and yes, some deluded souls think those are the real deal. That's just sad.

Our shakes, on the other hand, are handmade when you order them, with a generous serving of real ice cream.

Then they get all shook up an old-school milkshake blender along with your favorite fresh fruit (when in season), cookies, candy bar bits or traditional shake flavoring. We'll add malt to any of them; just let us know. And be sure to ask us about our seasonal shakes.

Our Onions Run Rings Around the Others

Yes, it's true that you can find them at other burger joints, but they won't be nearly as good as ours. We take our onion rings very seriously. For one thing, we hand cut, batter and delicately bread thick-sliced onions, quickly deep-frying each batch per order just before delivering them to you. Golden, crispy and delicious, they taste as beautiful as they look. Go ahead, get another order!

Always Leave Room for Mushrooms

These juicy little jewels are a Kidd Valley signature. Others have tried to copy them but none compare to ours. They're crisp and crunchy on the outside and bursting with rich mushroomy flavor on the inside. That's because we make them to order, coat them in our winning combination of breading and batter, and deep-fry them in 100% Canola oil at exactly the right temperature to ensure absolute perfection in flavor and texture.

You Only Live Once, So Order Twice

If you find it impossible to choose between the onion rings and the mushrooms (don't worry, you're not alone), then order a Sampler and enjoy both. They taste equally delicious dipped in our homemade Tartar and Ranch sauces, so you might as well order two of those too.

Origins of the Kidd

Kidd Valley's made-to-order burgers and hand-mixed shakes can be traced back to the fishing trips founder John Morris took with his father as a youngster. A favorite spot for Morris's family was Camp Kid, an old logging camp at the base of Mt. St. Helens, which was located near a primitive 1950's general store that served freshly-made burgers and delicious milkshakes. Morris's fondness for the tasty burgers and shakes served up at the general store stuck with him into his adult years.

Those memories were triggered within Morris one day in 1975, when he spotted a "For Sale" sign in the window of a former Dairy Delight in Seattle's U-District.

Realizing that Seattle had yet to establish its own specialty hamburger and milkshake tradition, Morris opened Seattle's first Kidd Valley hamburger restaurant in 1975 at 5502 25th Ave NE. Morris sold his Kidd Valley restaurants to Ivar's in 1989, which has continued with his vision of freshly prepared burgers, sandwiches, side orders and hand-mixed milkshakes.

Fun Fact

The company's original "Burger Babe" logo was replaced at the turn of the century by the Kidd carrying the burger. But, the Burger Babe still hides around the restaurants. Can you find her?
